

*They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old
Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn.
At the going down of the sun and in the morning
We will remember them.*

Robert Laurence Binyon (1869-1943) "For the Fallen"

Brothers and Sisters,

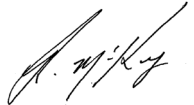

On Remembrance Day we honor the men and women who fought for our freedom and our country. We honor those who sacrificed their own lives for the ideals of peace, freedom, and national unity.

Remembrance Day is not just about war. It is about courage, values, respecting our past, and more than anything, thanking those who have served – and those who are still serving - to defend our land, our freedom, and to protect our people to create a more just world.

Our heroes continue to inspire us and teach us that freedom is gained through virtue and courage, through effort and sacrifice. Today, in difficult conditions, amid a pandemic, the anniversary we are celebrating is an example of solidarity, and national self-confidence. History teaches us that our homeland is stronger and overcomes every obstacle when it is united.

Let the sacrifice of our ancestors become for us a commitment to the ideals of Freedom and Peace.

Fraternally Yours,

Rod McKay
